As the cherry blossoms settle on what has been an extraordinary journey, we want to take a moment to extend our deepest gratitude to every venue and independent applicant who brought Fifty Shades of Sakura to life. Your passion, creativity, and dedication transformed this event into something truly remarkable. Each offering, every carefully crafted moment, and the shared excitement of our community made this a spectacle to remember.

We would especially like to thank our participating venues—Project XIV, Minx, Supreme, HaVeN, Cherry Blossom, Eden, Golden Market, Habitat, Envy, and Clubbers LS—for their incredible support and collaboration. This event has also been enriched by some notable favourites from Church of Metal and Arclight, whose presence added an extra touch of magic to the night. It has been an honour to work alongside all of you in creating a truly immersive and unforgettable experience.

To those who applied, but that we were unable to accommodate due to overwhelming interest, please know that your enthusiasm and effort were deeply appreciated. The decisions were incredibly difficult, and we are grateful for every single person who wanted to be part of this event.

Fifty Shades of Sakura would not have been possible without the collective magic of everyone involved. From the bottom of our hearts, thank you for being part of this dream beneath the blossoms.

THE ENCHANTRESS OF FALLEN PETALS

SAKURA MIHARU

Beneath the eternal bloom of the cherry blossom trees, where pink petals drift like whispered confessions, she lingers – a vision both haunting and divine.

Sakura Miharu, the spirit of the kitsune, conjures fate with a smile, calling forth those who burn too brightly. She does not chase. She does not beg.

The ambitious come willingly, drawn by a force beyond reason, beyond mortal senses.

She stands as if sculpted from radiant moonlight, her hair a cascade of ivory and rose, the strands kissed by the glitters of first light. Her kimono flows like mist, pale pink silk embroidered with the fleeting beauty of nature’s own intricate hand. With each movement, the air bends around her, carrying the ghostly echo of a melody long lost. And her eyes, like polished ruby, burn with a crimson glow that unravels the will of those who meet them – ensnaring them to her visage.

Once, she was a mortal. A girl who loved beyond what the world would allow. She sought no riches, no throne – only the right to be desired and to be loved. The cherry trees heard her delicate sorrow, and in their flowering grace, they answered in their harrow. Her name was forgotten. Her love, forever lost. And in their place, she was reborn.

Now, she seeks those who shine, who create, who dream. She whispers promises beneath the petals, inviting them to relinquish their gifts beneath the sacred boughs just as she had once done.

Some say she is a monster. Others, a goddess. Yet none deny her power. When the wind carries the scent of cherry blossoms and the night hums with a voice just beyond hearing, ask yourself – was it only the wind? Or has Sakura Miharu chosen you?
